

urgent

help for Pakistan

Monsoon rains have triggered devastating flash floods in Pakistan, killing at least 1,300 people. Hundreds more are still missing, and thousands of homes have been washed away.

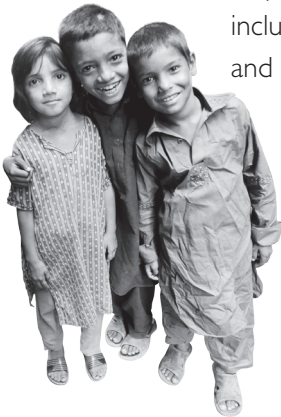

Children and women who were already suffering from poor health are especially vulnerable to the spread of waterborne disease right now. With more rain expected, their situation could become even more dire in the coming weeks. "The needs are massive right now," says Edward Aquino, World Vision's director in Pakistan.

Your church can provide life-saving relief by taking a special offering this Sunday. Your gift will help deliver vital emergency relief—including clean water, food, health care, and shelter—to children and families devastated by the flooding.

Please remember the children of Pakistan in your prayers—and with your gifts—this Sunday.

Together, we can provide urgent relief and help families rebuild.

how you can help save lives:

- Download the Pakistan bulletin insert from www.worldvisionchurches.org and distribute it to your congregation this Sunday.
- Collect a special offering for the children and families of Pakistan during your weekend service(s).
- Fill out the bottom of this sheet and return it to World Vision, along with your church's donation. Completing this form will ensure that your donation is processed correctly and the funds are distributed ASAP. Please make checks payable to World Vision.
- Continue to pray for children and families impacted by this disaster.
